Great outdoors: Winnalee High School students complete a silver Duke of Edinburgh expedition in the school's kayaks.

Duke of Edinburgh students learning valuable life skills

Through the Duke of Edinburgh's Award program at Winnalee High School, more than 100 students are gaining skills for life as they complete the physical recreation, community service,

Teamwork, self reliance, commitment, sharing, adventure, co-operation and organisation skills are just some of the personal qualities developed through participation — skills which not only support their learning at school, but also prepare them for work and study opportunities after school.

Expeditions are the most popular aspects of the program. Students learn bushwalking and navigation skills then put them to good use as they navigate their way through routes in the Blue Mountains, Snowy Mountains and other National Parks.

Thirty bronze level students have just completed their first award expedition in the National Park at Glenbrook. Students had to find their way around an off track route as well as show their camp craft and preparation skills as they camped overnight.

After bronze, many students choose the kayaking option for silver and after completing their training at the Penrith Whitewater Stadium, they get to enjoy the beauty and thrills of waterways across NSW.

The program is so popular, many ex-students come back as additional leaders on expeditions and support younger students as they walk or paddle their way to successfully complete the award.

Featured artist: A David Lake landscape is just one of the many delights to be found at Artfest this year.

Award winner

Winnalee High School is pleased to announce David Lake as the feature artist for the 18th annual Autumn Artfest.

David Lake is a notable oil painter of the Australian landscape. He has been painting for more than 25 years, including the past six years on a professional basis.

Originally from Sydney, David now resides in the small town of Newbridge in the NSW central tablelands. He has previously exhibited with Artfest with his paintings receiving highly commended awards in 2007 and 2008.

David's painting style is uniquely his own and has been winning awards and commendations since 1991, including the Combined Art Societies of Sydney - Artist of the Year for 2007 and 2008.

David was one of 10 finalists in an international landscape competition run by the International Artist Magazine in 2006, and a finalist in the $35,000 Country Energy Prize for Landscape Painting on three occasions.

In 1999 David was welcomed as an Exhibiting Member of the Royal Art Society of NSW and in 2002 elevated to the status of Associate. He is also a member of the Catley 101 Society of Artists, and an occasional tutor. His work has appeared on several occasions in Australian Artist Magazine and he is represented in Max Germane's Artists & Galleries of Australia.
